Nonviolent Communication: Making a Difference, Part I

9:00 am - 5:00 pm (EST)

The Learning Enrichment Center
3320 San Pedro NE
Albuquerque, NM

Marshall B. Rosenberg, Ph.D., author of Nonviolent Communication: A Language of Life, has taken up where Gandhi, King, and other past visionary leaders for peace left off. An internationally renowned visionary himself, Rosenberg 's credentials rank him as one of the foremost new leaders for world peace. His equally visionary communication process, Nonviolent Communication (NVC), is the cornerstone of what global leaders, educators, and beyond are identifying as the missing link to the solution we all seek. Viewed through NVC eyes, all anger and violence--both in the world at large and in our own personal lives--is a counter-productive attempt by people to meet their needs.

Nonviolent Communication: Be the Change You Want to See

Religious Science Center

505 Camino de los Marquez, Santa Fe, NM

With Marshall Rosenberg, author of Nonviolent Communication, a Language of Life. Like many in the social change movement, Marshall Rosenberg credits Mahatma Gandhi for his understanding of nonviolence, on which he bases his groundbreaking theory of social change and restorative justice. Like Gandhi, Dr. Rosenberg sees nonviolence as the pivot in effective and lasting social change and integral for any spiritual journey. And, like Martin Luther King, Marshall emphasizes spiritual growth and restorative justice in place of retribution and punishment as the basis for his actions for social change. But Marshall's own spiritual journey, coupled with the use of Nonviolent Communication, builds on the work of these visionary leaders to help us reach for peace well into the 21st Century. And for Marshall, reaching outward begins with looking inward.

Filmmakers Ann Crawford and Arn Battaglone traveled to nearly 40 countries interviewing people from all walks of life. They asked 3 simple questions. Why are we here? Why is there so much suffering in the world? How can we make world peace? The resulting documentary will inspire your own answers to these questions and encourage you to find your own way to make this world a better place. Love offering. Food and beverage available.

Great Salt March Gardening Day 4

(All Day)

Location: Sebastian, FL

People around the world are doing an International walk of Peace, Justice and Freedom together from March 12th -

April 6th in honor of Mohandas Gandhi's Great Salt March. Even just one walk done together in different places around the world is a great way to bring Gandhi's great energy of unconditional caring into the present moment.

We are walking to help think about people and the plants and animals around them, the people, plants and animals during Gandhi's time, the people, plants and animals now, people helping people, plants and animals by picking up trash, recycling and organic gardening. We are doing four hour walks at sunrise and sunset, marking the cycles of time with life, learning and meditation in between to pick up 9-13 grocery size bags of trash following the programme of Gandhi's Salt March, doing trips in a circle around where we live in the shape of a flower, letting the dog Rajah choose the shape of the petal. This is a great challenge motivated by Gandhi's inspirational walk and everyone around the world doing it together. You are welcome to join me on any day (you can do it where you live) or inspire me with your own Salt March walk ideas.

During the walk, we can learn about Gandhi, the things people trash in our neighborhoods, South Asian culture in relation to the cultural environment of our neighborhoods. We can learn ways to heal sore muscles and physical tiredness and create heart-warming meals to energize us for the walks. The event schedule involves 5-6 day walks with rest days in between. Each 5-6 day walks ends with a candle/torch lit walk in the evening.

Alternatives to Violence Workshop

with Hal Brodie and Allen McAfee
Violence comes in many forms. In our daily lives, we face interpersonal conflict and non-physical violence every day. Many of us are shocked and concerned by the increasing conflict on the streets, in our schools and in homes.

Violence knows no class, racial, economic or geographical boundaries. In this workshop, through personal interactions, we will be taught how to transform potential violent situations into peaceful resolutions. We will learn the same non-violent skills and techniques that were used by Mohandas Gandhi and Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

This workshop will feature trained AVP facilitators Hal Brodie and Allen McAfee and hosted by SNV committee members Aline King and John McNeil.

Location: San Francisco State University

Honoring & Dissolving Differences: Inner Work & World Work, with Dr. Lane Arye
PROCESS WORK and WORLDWORK offer powerful and effective tools that can help us to work toward wholeness, well-being, social justice, and community. Developed by Arnold Mindell, Ph.D. (author of Sitting in the Fire, Shaman, s Body, etc.) and his colleagues from around the world, Process Work and World-Work are based on a trust that even the most disturbing experiences - including physical illness, conflicts and world issues - can lead us in the direction of growth, and connection. The facilitator, s task is to bring awareness to what is actually happening in an individual or group.

The method recognizes patterns for change that first appear as a disturbance (Mindell, 1986). A teleological approach, Process Work and World-Work look not just for the cause of a problem or how to eradicate it; rather when a problem is unfolded with accuracy and heart, a new way forward is discovered that is often surprising, creative and transformative.

* LANE ARYE, Ph.D. teaches conflict facilitation, Process Work, and Unintentional Music worldwide. In the Balkans, he co-led a UN funded project working with Serbs, Croats, and Muslims on ethnic tension, war-related trauma, and community building. Lane has also worked with conflicts between high-caste and low-caste Hindus from India, anti-Semitism in Germany and Poland, as well as racism, sexism, nationalism, homophobia, and class issues in the US and Europe. He is on the faculty of the Process Work Center of Portland, s Master of Arts in Conflict Facilitation and Organizational Change. Author of Unintentional Music: Releasing Your Deepest Creativity, Lane lives with his wife, Lecia, and has a private practice in Berkeley and San Rafael.

Yolanda King - Moving forward - the Dream Continues

7:00 pm - 9:00 pm (PST)

Location: First Congregational Church
2601 Harrison Street
Oakland CA

I can't begin to share the synchronicity that has taken place to bring this about.from a historic point, it is the actual date of Dr King's assassination; Riverside Church, New York in honoring Dr King will be re-playing the powerful speech he gave there against the war; it's a Monday night, and during the bus strike, that was the night the "meetings" took place – the meetings of "civil rights". Children attended these meetings; teachers did not give homework.....

So we are reaching out to all who participated, benefited, and continue to know the importance of Civil Rights.....please plan on joining us:

Monday April 4, 2005 – Yolanda King will share insights on "the Dream Continues". Honoring the anniversary of Dr King's assassination, through those left behind.

Yolanda is the first-born daughter of Coretta Scott King and Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Her mission is to encourage personal growth and positive social change through her artistic endeavors, including acting, producing, speaking and teaching. It is King's passion for peace and positive change that prompted her vision for founding Higher Ground Productions, an organization dedicated to teaching people to celebrate diversity and embrace unity.

King says that until we learn to live together in peace, no one is free

Our evening begins at 7pm at First Congregational Church in Oakland (2501 Harrison Street, Oakland CA 94618). We will have music by the children from Roots of Unique Awareness; Dominion and others. There is a fee, sliding scale in nature $15 to $50. Sponsored by: Season for Peace/SNVOakland, First Congregational Church, Martin Luther King Freedom Center

For additional information, contact SNVOakland@aol.com or 510-489-3860

SNVOakland is a 501c3, funds raised will benefit Youth Education of Non-Violence in Oakland
